ONE WOMAN AND ONE MAN.

BY UNCLE HENRY.

"I am just from the little cemetery out back of this place—from the burial of an old chum—and I feel depressed."

"Then what you need is a 'nip.' I have a bottle, so let's try one."

"Not a drop, thank you. Two weeks at the bedside of a dying friend and frequent serious thoughts about life have left me with a new resolve in mind. I especially hope hereafter to be an abstainer from liquor."

"Then pardon me for tempting you, old boy."

The words I quote were part of a conversation I heard while passing, by train, through a section of Indiana. At a small station three young men, whom I recognized by their luggage and talk were drinking, came into the coach and seated themselves just across the car from me. Each one was full of life—jolly to an interesting extent—and I unwittingly became interested in their conversation. They had been chatting at a lively rate when the youngest, who had all along been addressed as Frank, remarked:

"I have a bottle, let's have a drink."

And there was a general response. Soon another station was reached and here a fourth friend, addressed as Bob, came in and was cordially greeted by the trio. Frank asked him what he was doing in that section and the words given above passed between them. The remark made by Bob naturally increased the interest I had taken in the party.

Though the bottle was passed I observed it was accepted by only two—Frank and a much older man who answered to the name of Jones. The coming of Bob and what he had said also proved a dampener on the men, for they soon grew less talkative and seemed to find much interest in their other books, old letters and newspapers.

An hour after Bob's arrival I heard Frank say to Jones, "Our station is the next stop and I will be glad to get off." They were soon gone, departing quietly. As they left the car Bob, addressing his remaining friend, whom he called Dick, remarked:

"Frank should be wary of the bottle. His temperament makes it a dangerous associate for him."

"You are unquestionably right," replied Dick.

"Whisky has ruined many a man. It was largely the cause of the death of the chum of whom I spoke a while ago," said Bob.

"Some take to the cup to be social and others to drown their troubles, but the end is the same," remarked Dick.

There was a short silence and then Dick added:

"I will not ask the name of your chum, but your remark that whisky was largely the cause of his death suggests even a greater Nemesis than drink had much to do therewith and my curiosity is aroused."

"Yes," replied Bob, and then he slowly said: "The poor fellow died the victim of a woman's heartless acts—a woman he loved and whom he all but worshipped. Understand she was not frail—only without a woman's heart."

"Interested to such an extent I was inclined to be rude enough to ask Bob to relate his chum's life story, but Dick settled this by saying:

"You make me a Donbting Thomas. Bob, unless your friend's neglect or cruelty drove his wife to her heartless acts."

"That you may judge for yourself let me tell the life story of Jack Dourland, for that was my chum's name."

There was silence for a few moments and then Bob said:

"I never knew Jack's wife, but I often heard it said she was most attractive, being fair of face and bright in mind. Dourland met her while she was on a visit to friends in his home town and fell desperately in love with her. He became a devoted suitor and after a year's courtship won her hand in marriage. Their union was apparently a most propitious one and no thought could have been more foreign than that it would not be a happy one.

"Mrs. Dourland had been raised in affluence and knew nothing of the worth of money. With her there was no thought but pleasure. Her object in life seemed only to reign as a society belle and leader. Consequently their home—quiet a pretensions—was left to Jack by his father—was the scene of frequent gatherings of a social nature. Thus the couple traveled a pace which detracted from Dourland's attention to business and Mrs. Dourland's care of household affairs. This neglect, along with wasteful extravagance, soon brought the usual evil results, chief of which was the wrecking of Dourland's financial standing.

"Too often it is just that way," interposed Dick.

"Yes," said Bob, in reply, "many a financial disaster follows extravagance, which is attributed erroneously to bad business instead of waste of means and energy in object of interest."

"But to my story. Jack did not fail to recognize his impending disaster, but he made no effort to avert it. He simply kept up the pace he had entered, no doubt thinking the end of the lane would prove a favorable turn. But a demand he could not meet came one day and he was thus compelled to go to his wife to suggest making a mortgage on the house. Strange as it may seem she seemed to think that Jack wanted to curtail her expenses and she was both offended and resentful. She talked of death in preference and Dourland left her thinking that reason would come to her when she was alone.

"Yes, but when Dourland left home," continued Bob, "he started for his office—he was a young lawyer—just to think, but on the way it flashed into his mind that a relative in a nearby town might come to his relief. The thought tempted him to hope and action followed. He immediately prepared to go to talk to this relative. And fearing to lose by any delay he did not return home to tell his wife of his idea. But he wrote her a note saying he had gone from the city for a few hours and expected to bring pleasing information on his return. This note was placed in careless hands and was not delivered until late—not until after Mrs. Dourland had written a brief and heartless note to Jack, left for the train then about to depart, and was soon on her way to her father's home in the state's metropolis. That night late, with the financial relief needed, Dourland returned home, but instead of his wife and a loving welcome his only greeting was her cruel note. The note was brief, its point being that her social standing would not be the same and rather than suffer such mortification she had decided to return home. But this was not all. Jack was told not to follow her, but that to depart for other scenes and there make a new reputation and find a new home. The note ended with these cruel words: 'I can never be a poor man's wife and you are poor.'"

"Yet Walter Scott wrote of woman as a 'ministering angel,'" remarked Dick.

"That night Dourland also left home, whether he knew not, but previous to his departure he arranged with his brother to discharge his help and to take charge of his affairs. His instructions were to save what he could and send it to his wife. From the hour Jack, poor fellow, left home he became a wanderer on the face of the earth."

"How strange," said Dick, that he did not follow his wife to her father's. It would seem that his devotion would have prompted such an act."

"He did, but she would not see him. And from the hour he turned away from that house he was never his old self again. Despair possessed him and remained with him until his death. Without the heart to retrieve his fortune, having no hope of reclaiming his wife, he sought comfort in the cup, falling a willing victim to its seductive powers, and step by step went lower and lower. He was as unlike his former self when he died as mortal could possibly have been."

"How came you to be with him in his last hours?" asked Dick now deeply interested in the story.

"Of course after Jack's departure from home all trace of him was soon lost; but a few weeks since I accidentally came across him in the streets of Indianapolis. Curiosity had taken me into some of the slum districts and as I was passing a saloon Jack came out. Though he looked little like his former self—for he was always one of the handsomest of men and ever well dressed—I was able to recognize him just as easily as he did me. He attempted to avoid me, but I followed him and finally he stopped and we had a long chat. I found he was sick, very ill, though forced to move along, so I led him into the city proper and by a little shrewd work got him into the city hospital. I paid him daily calls, having secured such a permit, and thus had a number of chats with him. He was not a moral though a physical wreck and though grieved over his broken health I was pleased to know there was still much of the old Jack left. Singular as it may seem he blamed himself entirely for his misfortunes, even to his wife's desertion, and for he had only words of love, and his eyes brightened when she was in his mind. It was all weakness, said he often, 'that weakness which made me too cowardly to be plain with my wife and which finally made me a common drunkard and a vagabond.'"

"Yet it was Shakespeare who said, 'Frailty thy name is woman,'" remarked Dick. "Poor Dourland, what a contradiction his life was to the word of Avon's idea."

"Nevertheless," continued Bob, "Jack's life, especially because of its weakness, would be a valuable lesson to mankind, but what little fruit it will bring forth. His constant request was to be permitted to die all but unknown and to be buried with only such conformity to the laws as might be necessary. So far as I was able I kept the faith he placed in me. Besides myself only the hospital attendants were present when he died, and at his burial not a soul was present who knew him in life. His relatives and close friends may some day learn of his death and place of burial, but if they do it will be by the nearest chance."

"Did not Dourland want his wife at his bedside or the grave?" asked Dick, as he turned to Bob.

"He never suggested such a thing and neither did I. He did say, however, that he wanted me to tell his wife that he loved her to the last and freely forgave her for all the heartaches she had ever caused him."

"How will you deliver Dourland's message—for of course you will regard his wish?" asked Dick.

"Some day when I feel just right I will pen and mail her an account of Jack's death and his message to her," replied Bob.

"Your letter will touch her heart I am sure, unless it tailed be one of stone," said Dick.

"Perhaps, but who will know as another man's wife—for she secured a divorce from Jack and married again shortly thereafter—if she ever has a regret God alone will know."

"Did Dourland know of her marriage and still love her?" quickly asked Dick.

"No, and I assure him that knowledge, which came to me accidentally when it occurred. He thought only of her as his wife."

"Rebtribution may come to her yet—it should," said Dick.

"She may never know a heartache. The wife of one able to give her a surfeit of social frivolities, if not love. Life to her may end as one ray of sunshine."

"And what about the three wells?" asked Dick.

"It will also be divided off into plots, and in a short time placed on the market. The land can be sold now, as stated a few days ago, for $280,000, but if oil is found, it will be worth millions."

EDITORIAL NOTES.

A corner on whiskey is reported from New York, and a famine is predicted. It's now up to the loose fighters to organize a union and strike for an increase.

Mr. Bryan dubs the anti-Bryan movement in the south the work of plutocrats, and thinks, no he thinks of everything else and in accord with his teachings and himself, that it will amount to nothing. But Mr. Bryan is a poor guesser.

A touching incident marked President McKinley's welcome to Texas yesterday. After the usual speeches, a feeble old lady tottered forward and presented the president with a small silk flag of the Lone Star state, which he deferentially accepted. She was the widow of Anson Jones, the last president of the republic of Texas.

The Americans have begun more extensive improvements in the Philippines. Public schools are to be established on the three islands of Masbate, Ticao and Iriha, and American teachers placed in charge.
 There is at present not a school in any of the three islands. There is evidently much work ahead in the Philippines, but there is no one more capable of meeting the requirements than the Americans.

Senator Mark Hanna in an interview in New York, voices the sentiments of all Republicans, who brought prosperity and intend it shall stay, when he said: "The President will see prosperity wherever he goes,
 and that will give him the best evidence of the success of his administration and the soundness of the principles for which it stands. I have no doubt the present prosperity will continue throughout President McKin-ley's second term. There is not a cloud in the sky. We have turned over a new leaf. We cannot measure the present by the past."

The most accommodating victim of the anticlerical mania on record has bolted up in New Orleans. He was a man of family, and instead of blowing his wife and daughter's brains out when he took a notion to and then ending his own miserable existence, he first laid the case before them and asked permission to kill them. They thankfully declined his generous offer.

and advised him not to harbor such morbid, blood-thirsty fancies. He considerably refrained from making corpses of them, but proceeded to fix himself up in style by buying a hole in his breast with a pistol.
 This emphasizes the fact that a great many strange things happen nowadays.

A bucket shop in Kansas City has come back at the Chicago board of trade in a novel answer to the board's suit to restrain the bucket shop from using its quotations on the grounds that it is a bucket shop.
 The defendant alleges that the board of trade does a similar business to that of the bucket shop and asks the court to so find; it also prays the court to declare void the contract which the board of trade and the telegraph companies are given the exclusive right to send quotations to such persons as the board of trade shall dictate, the defendant making the claim that the quotations belong to the public, and alleging that such contract is in violation of the interstate commerce act and the pool and trust law of Missouri.

Is it possible that the daily pa-roxysms of a so-called Democratic contemporary over the necessity of nominating "good men" for the council Friday, are to be taken as an overt confession that there is imminent danger of getting a set of bad ones from the lot? It is certainly not very complimentary to the Democrats as a whole who were called out and are aspirants for the nominations.

 And strange to say, the morality nomination has occasioned the paper no solicitude. Does it think there is no need for getting a "good man"
 for that nomination?

The South Bend, Indiana, gentlemen who recently visited Paducah and briefly accepted of her hospitality were very profuse in their expressions of appreciation when they reached home, judging from what the papers
 had to say of the Kentucky welcome.
 The gentlemen were very much impressed with Paducah's size, attractiveness, and attractiveness, and regret that they did not previously arrange to spend more time in the capital of the Purchase. It never hurts a town to properly entertain distinguished visitors.

JUDGE HUSBANDS DECIDES THAT
 THE BOND CASE

Is Null—Appeal Asked and Granted—
 Other Circuit Court
 Notes.

The noted suit of A. and J. Wurth
 against the city on sixteen old $1,000 bonds that were discovered among some old papers of the late William Groff, and which were long overdue, has been temporarily disposed of in the circuit court.

The principal and interest in the case amounts to nearly $50,000 hence the suit is of considerable importance.
 The city claims that it had paid the bonds, and that the records show that they had been ordered destroyed, but over twenty-one years having elapsed since they became due, the city, in answering the petition of the plaintiffs simply pleaded the law of limitation.

The plaintiffs filed a reply, to which the city demurred, and Judge Husband sustained the demurrer, practically deciding that the plea of limitation settles the case.

This morning the plaintiffs asked leave to file an amended petition, which the court refused. An appeal was then taken, and the question of limitation will be taken to the court of appeals for a decision. If the court of appeals affirms, the case will be ended. If it reverses, it will come back for trial.

A LITTLE ARITHMETIC.

1st —On January 1st Mrs. Jones buys her boy a $2 suit at a "cheap store," as she calls it.

2nd —On February 5th she finds the suit about worn out, and buys another at the cheap store for $1.50.

3rd —On March 1st she is compelled to buy still another, and she expends $2.50 this time, at the cheap? store.

4th —On May 1st she finds the last suit worn out and she brings her boy here and buys him a suit which we guarantee to wear at least six months. She pays $3, now how much would Mrs. Jones have saved had she bought of us in the first place? If the sum is worth saving, buy your boys'

NEWS BY WIRE.

Hopkinsville, Ky., May 1.—State Inspector Hines today produced the missing removal papers and Dr. E. B. McCormick was relieved of the duties of superintendent of the asylum. His card to the public today is very sorry, and in it he says Gov. Beckham, Inspector Hines and others, alleging that he is a victim of liars and slanders.

Danville, Ky., May 1.—Harvey Pope, a prominent Boyle county farmer, committed suicide this morning by hanging himself. He was insane when the deed was committed.

Washington, May 4.—Mr. J. R. Puryear, who has applied for reappointment for surveyor of customs at Paducah, is opposed by Mr. Elms P. Brigg, also of Paducah.

Louisville, May 1.—The strike of building trades is at standstill. A mass-meeting of the workmen will be held Monday, which may result in an amicable settlement.

Danville, Ky., May 1.—The jury in the Pope murder case was unable to agree and was this afternoon discharged.

Ashland, Ky., May 1.—Thomas Batts was shot and killed here today by Jim Thomas, who claimed that Batts insulted his sister. He was arrested.

Washington, May 1.—Secretary Gage has recommended to the war department the appointment of Jared D. Terrell, of Michigan, as auditor for Cuba, at $5,000 a year. The salary is paid out of the Cuban revenues. Mr. Terrell is chief clerk in the office of the controller of the treasury.

Louisville, May 1.—John C. Lewis has received a letter from J. J. Smythe, postoffice inspector for the Paris, Tenn., district, stating that Sam Crawford was under arrest in Paris on the charge of taking parcels from the United States mail. The news was gratifying to Mr. Lewis, as he had been compelled to send goods to his patrons in Paris by express, having suffered so many losses by mail that he was afraid to trust it.

The thefts began last May. Packages addressed to patrons in Paris never reached their destination. At first only an occasional package was lost, but as time passed and the thief was not detected he grew bolder and appropriated about all the mail bearing the stamp of the Louisville firm.

The theft of a package was always followed by a rigorous letter from the purchaser. Mr. Lewis wrote them and said that it was the fault of the Paris postoffice authorities, that the packages left the store all right. Those who vainly looked for small mail purchases then protested to the postmaster at Paris. He insisted that the fault was not with the postal authorities but that the thief was in the employ of the Louisville merchant. Mr. Lewis notified the Washington authorities. The arrest of Crawford is the result. Mr. Smythe's letter says that several pairs of gloves and a quantity of silk were found in his possession when he was arrested. The letter does not state his connection with the postoffice.

RABBI ENLOW.

LOUISVILLE PAPERS HIGHLY COMPLIMENT HIM AND PRINT HIS PICTURE.

Saturday's Louisville Times and yesterday's Courier-Journal contained a fine picture of Rabbi H. U. Enlow, formerly of Temple Israel here, accompanied by the following: "He began his service as Junior Rabbi at the Temple Adas Israel this morning. When he preached his trial sermon here he made a fine impression. Rabbi Enlow has already taken high rank as a scholar and writer. He is a contributor to the big Jewish encyclopedia now being prepared, and many of his papers, published in leading magazines, have attracted wide attention. He will be a force in the community. He comes here from Palestine."

ELKS PROGRAM.

TUESDAY IT WILL BE COMPLETE—THE BEST EVER GOTTEN UP.

Cairo Elks to Attend in Uniform—Some of the Details of the Two Big Parades.

The complete program for the Elks carnival will be ready Thursday, and will be the finest ever seen in Louisville.

The opening of the carnival gates will be at 7 p. m. Monday, following a magnificent parade. This will consist of 20 mounted Elks mounted police officers, the mayor and city officials, officers of the Elks and the members of the Ladies' auxiliary in carriages, Down's band, and the fire department. The parade will end at the Southland hotel and the Elks will then proceed to the Elks hall.

The procession will stop at the arch, and Mayor Lanz will make an address of welcome and deliver the keys of the city to Director General L. A. Lagomarsino. The gates will then be thrown open.

The flower parade Thursday will begin at 10 a. m. and will be headed by the automobiles, followed by the band, queen's float and mounted officers, then the various vehicles, the Riding club and the bicycle club.

Mr. H. P. Nunn went down the N. & W. L. yesterday to further advertise the carnival.

The booths are ready for the exhibitors, and have been arranged, the even numbers on the left side and the odd numbers on the right. They began at the arch and extend around to Court. The decorations begin Monday.

The Elks caps are going rapidly and are very attractive. They are at headquarters for those who ordered them, all ready to be delivered.

Miss Mamie Pettit, of Princeton, has written that she cannot be here to act as maid of honor, and another will be appointed next week for that duty. The Cairo and Marshall mails of honor are to be appointed Tuesday. Miss Jennie Wilson will be the maid of honor from Murray.

A watchman will be stationed on the carnival grounds today to remain until dark. Time is being necessary in day time to prevent mischievous boys from punching holes in the roofs of the booths.

Mr. Henry Schrott, who is building the queen's float, is making good progress, and it will be one of the finest works of art ever seen in the city.

The Cairo Elks will probably attend the carnival in uniform, and bring a brass band with them.

SHORT CHANGED.

BUT THE GRAFTER HAD STRUCK THE WRONG MAN HE DISCOVERED.

City Attorney R. T. Lightfoot came near being stunned by the man in the ticket office of Buckskin Bill's aggregation last night, and nothing but his courageous defiance of the bold would-be robber saved him. He had a pass himself, but bought a ticket for his boy and tendered a ten dollar bill in payment, and the ticket seller gave him back but 75 cents. He at once demanded the proper change, and the police were called and the remainder of his money was finally returned to him.

The short change grafters are often found with shows, and the one last night had a narrow escape from arrest. He tried a bold game, but struck the wrong man.

The steamer "Woodcock" will be in the streamer "Dick Fowler's" place beginning Monday. The Fowler's ship will be here Monday. It was delayed at Cincinnati by high water.

THIRTY PERISH

Jacksonville, Fla., May 4.—Yesterday's fire here was the worst in the history of any southern city. The total loss will amount to over $15,000,000 and it is feared that twenty-five or thirty persons perished in the conflagration. Chaos reigns, and it is impossible to learn if any of the people missing are safe. There is no lawlessness but the militia is on guard.

The entire business section of the city is in ashes and numerous lives have been lost. The fire burned furiously, defying the assaults of water, dynamite and the agencies of the fire departments of the numerous sister cities. Each is the sad story caused by the displacement of a bit of innocent looking wire which accidentally got into the shrouding machine of the American Fiber company at the corner of Davis and Union streets. The fire started between the hours of 12 and 1 o'clock p. m., and owing to this fact the loss of life will be comparatively small.

The fiber factory was a wooden shell, full of inflammable material, and in a few moments was a mass of flames. The wind which was already blowing strong from the southwest, seemed to be possessed with a sudden fury, and soon was carrying destructive embers all through the doomed city, the fairest portion of which lay right in the wake of the wind. Some delay was experienced in getting an alarm, and to add to the tragedy of fate the accident to the engine at the waterworks suffered a mishap and nothing more than ordinary pressure could be obtained.

The plans of the city as prepared by the city surveyors show that 130 blocks were burned and a part of another block. The estimates of real-estate values to the block in the residential district is ten, and in the business section the blocks were sold.

The chief of police ordered all saloons closed until further notified. Mayor Bowden says that ten to fifteen hundred people are homeless.

MR. REESE GARDNER DEAD.

WELL KNOWN MAN DIES AFTER A LONG ILLNESS FROM DROPHY.

Mr. Reese Gardner, one of Paducah's best known men, died at 2 o'clock this morning as the home of his mother on Jefferson street, near Eleventh, from drophy and a complication of diseases, after a long illness. He was forced to go to Dawson a few months ago, and was benefited by his sojourn, but became worse after his return to Paducah. He was born and reared here, and was 34 years old, being a son of the

NEWS OF THE ELKS

From Saturday's Daily.
Advertisements are now being inserted in all the papers within a radius of 100 miles by Secretary Atkins. This will be the climax to the extensive advertising of the big show.

Among the Midway attractions will be:

The Girl With the Auburn Hair in all her glory.

At the Electric Theater, Rosina appears in serpentine dances, the electrical effect of which is beyond description, and Robert, in the latest craze of Paris, "Pose Plastique," or "The Vision of the Rose."

Toly Marie, heads the list in magic, mystifying in the extreme. At the Hookey theater.

The Japanese theater will have the famous Kudara family of royal Japs from the Mikado's court by special permission. A $10,000 challenge performance. During fights that seem incredible without the use of wings.

At the German Village you will hear a charming bit of the "Vaterland," the Swiss Yoellers, Tyrolean singers and vocalists. Delightful refreshments and delicious beverages and lunches served.

Living pictures presented by a group of the world's most charming Parisian beauties. The leading features are "Sapho" and Quo Vadis and models from leading galleries of the world.

The Thompsons, champion high divers of the world, leaping from an eight-foot tower into three feet of water.

Princo-Ishmed, the fluid magician, who makes plants grow before your eyes, places a boy beneath a basket, which he pierces from side to side, through and through.

Abdullah and his band of Arabs accomplish feats too marvelous for description.

Katris and Kiku, beautiful Japanese sisters, in foot juggling and marvelous evolutions, will hold forth at the Streets of India.

The medals of honor for the flower parade thus far appointed are: Miss Bertha Farmer, Fulton; Miss Maimie Pettit, Princeton; Miss Jennie Watson, Murray; Miss Irma Quante, Metropolis. Those for Mayfield and Cairo are yet to be appointed.

It will be good news to the general public to learn that no rubber balls, flour sacks, or other devices used by the mischievous to "have fun," will be permitted at the carnival or in the city. The Elks have refused to grant a concession at a good figure for the sale of rubber balls, and their course will be generally approved. Everybody caught using the rubber balls, sacks of flour or anything else of this description will be arrested for disorderly conduct and fined.

The street fakirs are getting in their work pretty well now, but they will all be banished carnival week. No one during the week will be allowed to engage in any sort of business of that nature without first having the permission of the Elks committee.

The allotment of booths is progressing rapidly, and the merchants in most cases are accepting the assignments without demur. The work of decorating the booths will begin next week. The streets will be kept continually cleaned and sprinkled during the week, and the carnival week.

The advertising is being prosecuted with unabated vigor, and some of the most telling blows are being put in now. The crowds promise to exceed the most sanguine expectations.

FULTON'S SCHOOL CENSUS.
Fulton, May 4.—The number of school children in Fulton is 587, 298 male and 289 female. This is an increase.

PLEA SUSTAINED

JUDGE HUSBANDS DECIDES THAT THE BOND CASE

Is Null—Appeal Asked and Granted—Other Circuit Court Notes.

The noted suit of A. and J. Warrh against the city on sixteen old $1,000 bonds that were discovered among some old papers of the late William Greif, and which were long overdue, has been temporarily disposed of in the circuit court.

The principal and interest in the case amounts to nearly $50,000 hence the suit is of considerable importance. The city claims that it had paid the bonds, and that the records show that they had been ordered destroyed, but over twenty-one years having elapsed since they became due, the city, in answering the petition of the plaintiffs simply pleaded the law of limitation.

The plaintiffs filed a reply, to which the city demurred, and Judge Husbands sustained the demurrer, practically deciding that the plea of limitation settles the case.

This morning the plaintiffs asked leave to file an amended petition, which the court refused. An appeal was then taken, and the question of limitation will be taken to its court of appeals for a decision. If the court of appeals affirms, the case will be ended. If it reverses, it will come back for trial.

Miss Ethel Maxwell, of West Broadway, was appointed an examiner of McCrackin's case. It was today announced that Oliver & McCrackin, in the case of the Illinois Central, a verdict of $100,000 was rendered in favor of the plaintiff. In the case of W. R. Allen, Depew, Mr. James M. Allen, attorney for W. E. Allen, for an order for a review granted.

FROM HEART DISLASE

DEATH LAST NIGHT JOHN W. DE LOACH AGED 64

Mr. John W. De Loach died suddenly from heart trouble about 6 o'clock yesterday evening at his home, 1015 South Third street, in the city. He was a member of the city council, and when found lying on a couch in his bed room, a physician was called, but he was unable to revive him. He was in a dying condition and he attempted to rise to fall and expired.

Three women now serving terms in the lockup got tired of the confinement and requested Chels Gung Boss Woods to permit them to go out on the streets and work. CASE AFFIRMED.

MAJOR MOSS WINS HIS CASE IN THE COURT OF APPEALS.

A telegram from Frankfort states that the court of appeals, whole court sitting, affirmed the case of Lynn against Moss, from McCracken county. The suit was brought some little time ago by Mr. Knott Lynn asking for a division of the fee obtained by Major Thomas E. Moss in the suit to break the will of the late Mr. J. L. Allard. Major Moss was attorney for Mrs. Josephine Spaulding, and after the will was broken and he secured his fee, Mr. Lynn brought suit to recover half, claiming that he had a contract for half for having acted as detective.

Wheeler & Worten were attorneys for Mr. Lynn and Bishop & Hendrick for Major Moss. A demurrer was entered to the suit when it came up in the circuit court here and sustained by Judge Hunsbaker, who dismissed the case, which was then taken to the court of appeals and decided in favor of Major Moss.

THE TAX RATE.

IT WILL THIS YEAR BE A DOLLAR AND FORTY-FIVE CENTS.

It has been decided by the finance committee of the council that the tax levy for the ensuing year will be a dollar and forty-five cents, a dollar for city purposes and forty-five cents for the schools.

DEATH OF CHILDREN.

John, the six-months-old child of Mr. and Mrs. John Watts, of 920 Clay street, died yesterday and was buried today at 2 o'clock in Oak Grove cemetery.

Blanche, the thirteen-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Stone, of 1108 North Twelfth street, died of pneumonia and was buried today at Oak Grove, with funeral services at 10 o'clock by Rev. Chilke.

RED MEN INCREASING.

Friday night there will be an initiation of about twenty at the Red Men's hall in Campbell building. The order is increasing rapidly, and last Friday night about twenty were taken in. State Organizer Jones is here now and will remain until about the 14th. He is getting many applications for membership in the order.

SUES FOR WAGES.

C. W. Holder this morning filed in quarterly court a suit for $100 against the Illinois Central. He asks for $45 salary and for $55 damages. He claims that he was discharged and the company refused to pay him on the grounds that he had been garnished, and that the name of the person who is alleged to have garnished was withheld from him.

DIED FROM PNEUMONIA.

Mrs. Mollie Rawlinson, aged 86, died yesterday at her home near Florence Station from pneumonia, after a ten days' illness. She leaves a husband, Mr. E. Rawlinson, and two sons and two daughters. The funeral took place this morning, burial at the Mt. Pleasant graveyard.

JACKSONVILLE SUFFERERS.

Typographical Union No. 131, of Paducah, is entitled to credit for the quick and liberal manner in which it responded to the call for aid from the members in Jacksonville, Fla. In a short time, the members in the city donated over $10. It will be forwarded at once.

SUDDEN DEATH.

MR. JOHN BAUER DIES AT LOUISVILLE FROM HEART DISEASE.

Mr. J. Andy Bauer, the proprietor of the Paducah Pottery, was called to Louisville this morning by the news of the sudden death there this morning of his brother, Mr. John Bauer, who owns a pottery there. As he had been a sufferer from heart disease, it is supposed that it caused his death.

He was 48 years old, and leaves a wife and six children. He had several times visited Paducah, and was liked by all who knew him.

Mr. Bauer, wife and two children left this morning at 11:35 for Louisville to attend the funeral.

CHIEF ENGINEER.

MR. W. W. LYON ACCEPTS A RESPONSIBLE POSITION AT MOREHEAD, KY.

Engineer W. W. Lyon, who has been a resident of Paducah for several years, and was at one time assistant city engineer, has accepted a position as chief engineer of the Morehead and West Liberty railroad, with headquarters at Morehead, Ky.

This position he will hold until fall, supervising important work, and expects to then return to Paducah.

Mrs. Lyon left at noon today for Morehead to join him.

DEEDS.

Property on Thirteenth street in the Churchill addition, was transferred to William and Otis Overstreet by J. A. Cole and others, for $355.50. Special Commissioner J. D. McCot transferred to J. W. Campbell, for $455, property on Monroe street between Twelfth and Thirteenth.

The Chicago mortality reports indicate that the increase in the death rate is due to the speculation craze, which is very dangerous to people with weak hearts. The excitement is fatal principally to persons over 60 years of age, 104 out of 366 deaths, as shown by the report, being of persons over 60 years old.

SPEND THE SUMMER IN THE MOUNTAINS.

If there is one region more favored than another, or more suited for the health and pleasure seeker during the summer months, it is among the Cumberland and Lookout mountains of Tennessee. In these mountains, along the lines of the Nashville, Chattanooga and St. Louis railway, are to be found many health and pleasure resorts, such as Monteagle, Lookout Mountain, Eastbrook Springs, Bon Aqua Springs, Red Hot Springs, Nicholson Springs, Estill Springs, Beecheta Springs and many others, all offering attractions mostly contributed by nature.

The pleasing topography, shady nooks, green grass and splendid waters of Middle Tennessee in the highlands and mountains insure to the visitor and to those seeking rest and recuperation the very best advantages. This region is within easy reach of Western Kentucky, West Tennessee and the great Mississippi river bottom.

The facilities for reaching these resorts are the very best that can be afforded, consisting of convenient schedules, fast trains, sleeping car accommodations and everything that can conduce to the comfort and pleasure of the passenger.

Think seriously of spending the summer at one of these resorts, and write to R. C. Cowardin, city passenger and ticket agent, Memphis, Tenn., or to W. F. Danley, general passenger agent, Nashville, Tenn., for descriptive literature.

Next Sunday afternoon when the new steamer Morning Star, of the Louisville & Evansville Mail Line, floats proudly into the local port our people will be forcibly reminded of the good old days of steamboating twenty years ago, says a Henderson-Exchange. The Morning Star is said to be a beauty and will be one of the finest boats that runs on the Ohio river. She is large and a slide-wheeler. The Morning Star will be timed to reach Evansville each Sunday and leave here on Monday mornings for Louisville. The arrival of the new boat will be made quite an event. When the new steamer starts on her first up-stream trip she will carry an excursion party of Evansville people. They are now arranging for a trip from here to Louisville and return. It now remains to be seen what will Henderson do towards showing a proper appreciation of this fine steamer being permitted to extend her trips here. The matter has been talked over in certain quarters but no agreement has been reached.
